NEW QUESTION: 1

The understanding with a client of an auditor's contractual obligation ordinarily is set forth in the:

- A. Engagement letter.
- B. Introductory paragraph of the auditor's report.
- C. Management letter.
- D. Scope paragraph of the auditor's report.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Choice "C" is correct. An engagement letter, which is a presumptively mandatory requirement, sets forth the scope and nature of an auditor's contractual obligation to a client.

Choice "A" is incorrect. A management letter (also known as a letter of recommendations, or a constructive services letter) is usually delivered by the auditor at the end of the audit. It identifies areas of weakness and provides recommended solutions.

Choices "B" and "D" are incorrect. The scope and introductory paragraphs of the auditor's report do provide some information regarding the work performed by the auditor, but they do not express the auditor's understanding with the client as completely as does an engagement letter.

This guide shows how you can use an improved version of Ntdsutil and a new Active

[\[email&#160;protected\]](#) database mounting tool in Windows

[\[email&#160;protected\]](#) 2008 to create and view snapshots

of data that is stored in Active Directory Domain Services (AD DS) or Active Directory

Lightweight Directory Services (AD LDS), without restarting the domain controller or AD LDS server. A snapshot is a shadow copy-created by the Volume Shadow Copy Service (VSS)-of the volumes that contain theActive Directory database and log files.

The Active Directory database mounting tool (Dsamain.exe) can improve recovery processes for your organization by providing a means to compare data as it exists in snapshots that are taken at different times so that you can better decide which data to restore after data loss.

This eliminates the need to restore multiple backups to compare theActive Directory data that they contain.

This guide provides step-by-step instructions for using the Active Directory database mounting tool, including creating, listing, and mounting snapshots of AD DS; preparing them for viewing as a Lightweight Directory Access Protocol (LDAP) server; and viewing the data itself.

If you have some idea which organizational unit (OU) or objects were deleted, you can look up the deleted objects in the snapshots and record the attributes and back-links that belonged to the deleted objects. You can reanimate these objects by using the tombstone reanimation feature on a domain controller in your production environment. Then, you must manually repopulate these objects with the stripped attributes and back-links as identified in the snapshots. For more information about tombstone reanimation, see Reanimating Active Directory Tombstone Objects (<http://go.microsoft.com/fwlink/?LinkID=116204>).
