NEW QUESTION: 2

You have been given a business requirement to retain log files for your application for 10 years. You need to regularly retrieve the most recent logs for troubleshooting. Your logging system must be cost-effective, given the large volume of logs. What technique should you use to meet these requirements?

- A. Store your logs in Amazon S3, and use lifecycle policies to archive to Amazon Glacier.
- B. Store your logs in Amazon Glacier.
- C. Store your log in Amazon CloudWatch Logs.
- D. Store your logs on Amazon EBS, and use Amazon EBS snapshots to archive them.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

Option A is invalid, because cloud watch will not store the logs indefinitely and secondly it won't be the cost effective option.

Option B is invalid, because it won't server the purpose of regularly retrieve the most recent logs for troubleshooting. You will need to pay more to retrieve the logs faster from this storage.

Option D is invalid, because it is not an ideal or cost effective option.

You can define lifecycle configuration rules for objects that have a well-defined lifecycle. For example:

- * if you are uploading periodic logs to your bucket, your application might need these logs for a week or a month after creation, and after that you might want to delete them.

- * Some documents are frequently accessed for a limited period of time. After that, these documents are less frequently accessed. Over time, you might not need real-time access to these objects, but your organization or regulations might require you to archive them for a longer period and then optionally delete them later.

- * You might also upload some types of data to Amazon S3 primarily for archival purposes, for example digital media archives, financial and healthcare records, raw genomics sequence data, long-term database backups, and data that must be retained for regulatory compliance.

For more information on Lifecycle management please refer to the below link:

Note:

Option C is the cheapest option, but Cloud watch can store logs indefinitely or between 10 years and one day.

"Log Retention-By default, logs are kept indefinitely and never expire. You can adjust the retention policy for each log group, keeping the indefinite retention, or choosing a retention periods between 10 years and one day."
