NEW QUESTION: 1

You have a computer named Computer1 that runs Windows 10 Enterprise.

You need to identify the locations that you can select as a File History drive.

What are two possible locations? Each correct answer presents a complete solution?

- A. an unformatted partition
- B. a network share
- C. a non-system volume
- D. the operating system volume

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Explanation

You can use a non-system volume as a File History drive. This can be a volume on a hard drive in a computer, a Virtual Hard Drive (VHD) or an external USB drive.

You can also use a network share as a File History drive.

In the File History Control Panel item, you can click the "Select Drive" option. This will display a list of all detected drives that are suitable for use as the File History drive.

Under the list of drives, there is a link "Add Network

Location". You can click the link and browse to or enter the path to the network share.

NEW QUESTION: 2

What is the purpose of certification path validation?

- A. Checks that no revoked certificates exist outside the certification path.
- B. Checks that all certificates in the certification path refer to same certification practice statement.
- C. Checks that the names in the certification path are the same.
- D. Checks the legitimacy of the certificates in the certification path.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Not C. Revoked certificates are not checked outside the certification path.

"A Transaction with Digital Certificates

1.) Subscribing entity sends Digital Certificate Application to Certificate Authority.

2.) Certificate Authority issues Signed Digital Certificate to Subscribing Entity.

3.) Certificate Authority sends Certificate Transaction to Repository.

4.) Subscribing Entity Signs and sends to Party Transacting with Subscriber.

5.) Party Transacting with Subscriber queries Repository to verify Subscriber's Public Key.

6.) Repository responds to Party Transacting with Subscriber the verification request."

Pg. 214 Krutz: The CISSP Prep Guide: Gold Edition.

"John needs to obtain a digital certificate for himself so that he can participate in a PKI, so he makes a request to the RA. The RA requests certain identification from John, like a copy of his driver's license, his phone number, address, and other identification information. Once the RA receives the required information from John and verifies it, the RA sends his certificate request to the CA. The CA creates a certificate with John's public key and identify information embedded.

(The private/public key pair is either generated by the CA or on John's machine, which depends on the systems' configurations. If it is created at the CA, his private key needs to be sent to him by secure means. In most cases the user generates this pair and sends in his public key during the registration process.) Now John is registered and can participate in PKI. John decides he wants to communicate with Diane, so he requests Diane's public key from a public directory. The directory, sometimes called a repository, sends Diane's public key, and John uses this to encrypt a session key that will be used to encrypt their messages. John sends the encrypted session key to Diane. Jon then sends his certificate, containing his public key, to Diane. When Diane receives John's certificate, her browser looks to see if it trusts the CA that digitally signed this certificate. Diane's browser trusts this CA, and she makes a request to the CA to see if this certificate is still valid. The CA responds that the certificate is valid, so Diane decrypts the session key with her private key. Now they can both communicate using encryption." Pg 499 Shon Harris: All-In-One CISSP Certification Guide.
