NEW QUESTION: 3
How are Tape Drives configured in a NetApp Clustered Data ONTAP (cDot) environment?
A. Tape Drives have to be dedicated to each cluster node.
B. IBM Spectrum Protect auto-defines the tape paths for each node in a cluster.
C. IBM Spectrum Protect auto-defines data movers for each node in a cluster.
D. Tape Drives will be auto-defined during cluster setup.
Answer: B
Explanation:
Explanation/Reference:
Explanation:
Data ONTAP detects tape drives and tape libraries and assigns logical numbers and tape devices to them.
How the storage system qualifies a new tape drive dynamically
The storage system qualifies a tape drive dynamically by matching its vendor ID and product ID with the information contained in the tape qualification table. When you connect a tape drive to the storage system, it looks for a vendor ID and product ID match between the information obtained during tape discovery and the information in the internal tape qualification table. If the storage system discovers a match, it marks the tape drive as qualified and can access the tape drive. If the storage system cannot find a match, the tape drive remains in the unqualified state and is not accessed.
