NEW QUESTION: 3

Scenario: A company is being investigated for international transactions. Funds are being tunneled from the company to the client's personal account in another jurisdiction. Which two steps should law enforcement take in investigating this matter? (Choose two.) A. Ask the bank for the history of this multi-level marketing company B. Examine the flow of money from the company to the individual in an effort to determine if it is legitimate C. Examine possible Suspicious Activity Report information received from the local Financial Intelligence Units D. Determine who are the signatories on the account Answer: C Explanation: The scenario describes a company being investigated for international transactions. Funds are being tunneled from the company to the client's personal account in another jurisdiction. The question asks for two steps that law enforcement should take in investigating this matter. Option A is incorrect because asking the bank for the history of the multi-level marketing company is not a step that law enforcement should take. Option B is incorrect because examining the flow of money from the company to the individual is not a step that law enforcement should take. Option C is correct because examining possible Suspicious Activity Report information received from the local Financial Intelligence Units is a step that law enforcement should take. Option D is incorrect because determining who are the signatories on the account is not a step that law enforcement should take.
