NEW QUESTION: 1

Which configuration prevents traffic that is sourced from the unique local address scope to be sent out of the link to the upstream service provider?

- A. interface ethernet0/0 ipv6 traffic-filter NoULA out ! ipv6 access-list NoULA deny ipv6 FC00::/7 any permit ipv6 any any
- B. interface ethernet0/0 ipv6 traffic-filter NoULA out ! ipv6 access-list NoULA deny ipv6 FC00::/8 any permit ipv6 any any
- C. interface ethernet0/0 ipv6 access-group NoULA out ! ipv6 access-list NoULA deny ipv6 FC00::/8 any permit ipv6 any any
- D. interface ethernet0/0 ipv6 access-group NoULA out ! ipv6 access-list NoULA deny ipv6 FC00::/7 any permit ipv6 any any

Answer: A

Explanation:

A unique local address (ULA) is an IPv6 address in the block fc00::/7, defined in RFC 4193. It is the approximate IPv6 counterpart of the IPv4 private address. Unique local addresses are available for use in private networks, e.g. inside a single site or organization or spanning a limited number of sites or organizations.

They are not routable in the global IPv6 Internet. With our IPv6 ACL completed, we just need to apply it to an interface. There is a minor difference in syntax here. Instead of using the command `ip access-group` to apply our IPv6 ACL, we use the more aptly named command `ipv6 traffic-filter`, followed by the ACL name and a direction (in this case, "out").
