NEW QUESTION: 4What command displays detailed information about the GLBP groups to which the switch belongs?A. switch# show glbp stateB. switch# show standbyC. switch# show glbpD. switch# show standby detailAnswer: CExplanation:Explanation/Reference: Explanation:The command show glbp displays detailed information about GLBP groups on the switch. This informationincludes the GLBP groups the switch is a member of, whether this is the active switch, the virtual IPaddress, and whether preemption is enabled. Below is an example of the command output.The following can be learned from this output:This router is the active virtual forwarder (AVF). In line 3, the output indicates the state is listen. This is thestate of the active AVF.As indicated in line 14, this router is configured with a weighting for tracking of 105. It also is configuredwith an upper limit of 100 and a lower limit of 90. When a tracked object goes down, the value of 105 willbe reduced by the decrement value associated with that object. If this results in the weighting droppingbelow the lower limit (90), this router will give up its role as AVF.The router is tracking two objects, and both have decrement values of 10. This means that ONLY if bothobjects go down will this router relinquish its role as AVF. As there is another router to take the role of AVF,there will be no disruption of traffic, even if hosts were using the tracked interface that went down.The show glbp state will only display the glbp state of the router (standby, listen etc). Detailed output is accomplished with the command show glbp.The command show standby can be used to display detailed information about HSRP groups to which a switch belongs. This command is for HSRP only.The command show standby detail provides the same output as show standby. It can be used to display detailed information about HSRP groups to which a switch belongs. This command is for HSRP only.Objective:Infrastructure ServicesSub-Objective:Configure and verify first-hop redundancy protocolsReferences:Cisco > Cisco IOS IP Application Services Configuration Guide, Release 12.4 > Part 1: First HopRedundancy Protocols > Configuring GLBP
