NEW QUESTION: 3

You are auditing the claim handling of your branch office. You note that one of the claims is for lost revenue due to a windstorm damaging the building. The claim file states that the insured requested coverage for this type of loss. However, the independent agent failed to request the coverage though an oversight. Which action is required to appropriately handle the claim?

- A. The claim should be denied since repaying for business interruption and lost revenues would financially enrich the insured, which is against one of the principle of insurance
- B. The claim should be accepted and paid up to the policy limits since the insured meant to create coverage for business interruption. Due premiums for the coverage can be charged retrospectively
- C. The claim should be denied since coverage was never present, and the claim should be placed against the agency's errors and omissions policy for reimbursement of the claimant.
- D. The claim should be paid and the insured indemnified since the insured requested the coverage. Since the produce was acting as an "agent" of the carrier, they commute their liability
