You are migrating an on-premises application to Azure. One component of the application is a legacy Windows native executable that performs image processing.
The image processing application must run every hour. During times that the image processing application is not running, it should not be consuming any Azure compute resources.
You need to ensure that the image processing application runs correctly every hour.
Solution: Create a Logic App to run the image processing application every hour.
Does the solution meet the goal?
A. Yes
B. No
Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2
You are elected as the project manager of GHT project. You are in project initialization phase and are busy in defining requirements for your project. While defining requirements you are describing how users will interact with a system. Which of the following requirements are you defining here?
A. Project requirement
B. Functional requirement
C. Explanation:
While defining requirements, there is need to define three requirements of the project- Business requirement, Functional requirement, and Technical requirement
Functional requirements and use case models describe how users will interact with a system.
Therefore here in this stem you are defining the functional requirement of the project.
D. Technical requirement
E. is incorrect. Technical requirements and design specifications and coding specifications describe how the system will interact, conditions under which the system will operate and the information criteria the system should meet.
F. is incorrect. Business requirements contain descriptions of what a system should do.
G. Business requirement
Answer: B
Explanation:
is incorrect. Business requirement, Functional requirement, and Technical requirement come under project requirement. In this stem it is particular defining the functional requirement, hence this is not the best answer.
