NEW QUESTION: 1
HOTSPOT
Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The network contains 10 subnets.
You install a Web server on three different subnets. Each Web server hosts a web application accessed by using an FQDN of webl.contoso.com.
For webl.contoso.com, you create three host (A) records that each points to one of the Web servers.

You need to configure the DNS settings to meet the following requirements:
- Users who access webl.contoso.com from a subnet that contains one of the Web servers must connect to the server on their local subnet.
- When users connect from a subnet that does not contain a Web server hosting the web application, the connections must be balanced between the three Web servers.
Which two settings should you modify? (To answer, select the two appropriate settings in the answer area.)
