NEW QUESTION: 1

You are developing a Windows Store app that will be used to display daily high temperatures and other weather conditions for five cities. The app must meet the following requirements:

- * A splash screen is displayed on the device until the data is retrieved from the Internet.
- * The user must be able to view weather information as soon as the data is fully available. You need to ensure that the splash screen is displayed at startup until the app has completed loading updated data. Which actions can you perform to achieve this goal? (Each correct answer presents a complete solution. Choose all that apply.)

- A. Configure settings in the app manifest to display the splash screen until the data is fully available.
- B. Configure settings in the app manifest to display the splash screen for 10 seconds.
- C. Create an image that duplicates the splash screen, load the image from the dismissed event of the splash screen, and display the image until the data is fully available.
- D. Create an image that duplicates the splash screen, and display the image by using fragment loading until the data is fully available.

Answer: B,D

NEW QUESTION: 2

Given:

```
public static void main(String[] args) throws Exception { try { processFile();
    } catch (Exception e) {
        Throwable [] t = e.getSuppressed();
    }
}

public static void processFile() throws IOException {
    try (FileReader fr = new FileReader("logfilesrc.txt")); FileWriter fw = new FileWriter("logfiledest.txt")) {{ java.util.zip.ZipFile zf = new java.util.zip.ZipFile("alllogs.zip");
        System.out.println("Created files for logs");
    }
}
```

The `getSuppressed` method returns an array of _____.

- A. Exceptions suppressed because that are not declared in the `throws` clause.
- B. Only runtime exceptions that were thrown in the `processFile` method but were suppressed.
- C. All exceptions that were thrown in the `processFile` method but were suppressed.
- D. Only runtime exceptions that were thrown in the `processFile` method but were not declared in `throws` clause.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The `getSuppressed()` method returns an array containing all of the exceptions that were suppressed, typically by the `try-with-resources` statement, in order to deliver this exception. If an exception is thrown from the `try` block and one or more exceptions are thrown from the `try-with-resources` statement, then those exceptions thrown from the try-with-resources statement are suppressed.
