NEW QUESTION: 4
To provide meaningful output for:
System.out.print(new Item ()):
A method with which signature should be added to the Item class?
A. public Object asString()
B. public String asString()
C. public String toString()
D. public Item toString()
E. public object toString()
F. public Item asString()
Answer: C
Explanation:
Implementing toString method in java is done by overriding the Object's toString method. The java toString() method is used when we need a string representation of an object. It is defined in Object class.
This method can be overridden to customize the String representation of the Object.
Note:
Below is an example shown of Overriding the default Object toString() method. The toString() method must be descriptive and should generally cover all the contents of the object.
class PointCoordinates {
private int x, y;
public PointCoordinates(int x, int y) {
this.x = x;
this.y = y;
public int getX() {
return x;
public int getY() {
return y;
}
// Custom toString() Method.
public String toString() {
return "X=" + x + " " + "Y=" + y;
